Leave Books Off Shelves

Morris Library is being killed with kindness, in a manner of speaking.

Well meaning persons are reshelving books—most of the time in the wrong places, said Ferris S. Randall, director of the Library.

Randall said that as a result of these misguided acts of kindness he can only assume that students and others who use the library just hate to be messy.

Apparently as children they were brought up to put their toys away, he went on, so when they are through with a book at the library many reshelve it automatically, ignoring the posted warnings not to do so.

Quite often the book isn't returned to its original—and correct—place, on the shelf and therein lies Randall's problem.

Randall said that student assistants are paid to "read the shelves" frequently to detect misplaced books, but he acknowledged that it was a "hit or miss" process.

Randall urged students and others to leave the books on the tables, or to lay them flat on a shelf or even on top of other books when they are through using them.

In this way they will be noticed and reshelved properly by library employees, he added.

Sectioning Shifts From Arena to University Center

Advisement, registration and program changes will continue today after moving from the Arena back to offices south of the University Center.

Sectioning and program changes will be processed on the second floor of the University Center.

Students who were in school during the winter quarter but did not preregister will be charged a late fee of $4 today. Students in this category must have secured the approval of a dean and must gain an appointment for advisement.

Monday will be the last day to register or add a course by program change without the dean's approval. The late fee will advance to $5 on that day.

April 10 will be the last day a student can register or add a course by program change with the dean's approval.

Indiana Professor To Give Lecture On African Music

Alan P. Merriam, jazz bibliographer, Congo political expert and scholar of ethnic music, will lecture on African music, here April 8.

The lecture, sponsored by SIU's Committee on Asian Studies, will be at 8 p.m. in Morris Library Auditorium.

Merriam is a professor of anthropology at Indiana University. He is a cofounder of the Society of Ethnomusicology and served as a U.S. consultant during the Congolese political crisis in 1960. Among his books is "A Bibliography of Jazz."

He will complement his talk with tape recordings of African music.

GYMNASTS FILL THE AIR AT THE ARENA PREPARING FOR THE NCAA FINALS

A Block Is Reserved

Trampoline Star From West Point Bringing Own Folksy Cheering Squad — 25 Strong

By Frank Messersmith

One for all and all for one — so goes the saying and so goes the family and friends of John Longhouser, U.S. Military Academy gymnast who will be at SIU this weekend.

Two days ago, an aunt and uncle of Longhouser's fiancée, Mr. and Mrs. P. Geuder of Johnson City, purchased a block of about 25 tickets for the NCAA Gymnastics Finals. It seems most of Longhouser's neighbors and friends, and his fiancée's family are going to be here to cheer for John Longhouser, who will compete in the trampoline division of the meet, won the Eastern championship title and also picked up the regional title in Virginia.

The next few months of Longhouser's life are going to be packed with quite a bit of activity. Following the finals, in about two months, he will graduate from West Point, and right after that, he will be married in full military ceremony. Longhouser will then move to Munich, Germany, where he will complete a tour of duty with the U.S. Army tank battalion.

According to Mrs. Joan Meade, wife of SIU gymnastic coach, Bill Meade, when Longhouser picks up his registration packet in the Arena today, he will be in for a little surprise.

In view of his upcoming wedding, the packet will contain grains of rice and several notes such as, "Your days are numbered," and "Good luck on your last trip as a free mar."

In his telephone conversation Wednesday, Longhouser said he is excited about participating in the finals for several reasons. One is that this is the first year the trampoline has been included in the gymnastics events in the East, and the NCAA meet will mark his achievement after being out of competition for three and one-half years.

The other reason for Longhouser's excitement is the fact that he will have another chance at getting even with Gary Erwin, world's trampoline champion from the University of Michigan. In 1961, Longhouser and Erwin battled it out for the state trampoline title, and Longhouser ended up in second place.

This is the first time Longhouser will face Erwin since that time, and he is "anxious to get another shot at him."

Longhouser, when not in school, lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Longhouser in Broadview, near Chicago.

Meanwhile, gymnasts from all over the nation began arriving in Carbondale to prepare for the championship meet.

Officials estimated that 50 or more would be on hand today and at least 100 are expected for the opening round of the finals at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

Additional stories and pictures on the meet and gymnasts appear on Page 10.

Building Funds Add $23.1 Million

SPRINGFIELD — (AP) — An operating budget 24.8 per cent higher than the present one is proposed for SIU by Gov. Otto Kerner.

The governor recommended $82.7 million for the operation of SIU for the next two years. He also proposed another $23.1 million in construction outlays for the University; this is separate from the operating funds.

These recommendations were contained in the governor's budget which totaled $4.47 billion for the next two years. This is an increase of $422 million over appropriations for the present fiscal period which ends July 1.

Kerner asked for salary increases of $48.4 million for state employees, university and highway employees, and state police.

The governor proposed these new revenue measures to finance the budget increases:

—An increase in the gasoline tax. It would be raised from the present five cents per gallon, to eight cents, and two of the three cents in increase would be earmarked for non-highway purposes. The diesel-fuel tax would be doubled.

—An increase in the tax on cigarettes from the present four cents per pack, to eight cents.

—An increase in the public-utilities tax, from its present three per cent, to four per cent.

—An increase in the race-track betting tax.

The governor's recommendation for SIU operating funds was $2.1 million higher than the figure recommended by the State Board of Higher Education. The increase is designed to provide for payment of rentals on SIU buildings authorized under the Illinois Building Authority.

Most of the SIU building funds for the next two years would be from the IRA; the governor's recommendation

Solo Play Slated for Convocation

"The Rebels," a one-man drama presentation, will be given by Philip Hanson at the Freshman Convocations at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. today in Shryock Auditorium.

The performance is divided into four divisions titled "The English and the Americans," "The Women," "The Blue and the Grey," and "New Frontiers."

Hailed as one of America's foremost solo performers, Hanson will include historic representations of persons such as Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin, Lizzie Borden, Carrie Nation, Henry Ford, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and many others in his performance.

Hanson began touring the United States in 1959 with his first one-man show, Shakespeare's "Kings and Clowns." He has performed eight solo shows in repertory in which he plays a total of 265 characters.

His presentation of "The Rebels" follows the title theme from the rebellion of the United States up to the Civil War.

Research Grants Up 900% Over Figure Four Years Ago

In the brief span of four years, outside research funds awarded to SIU have increased by almost 900 per cent, according to figures compiled by the University's Office of Research and Projects.

External research funds granted to Southern in 1964 totaled $5,736,404 for 103 projects, in 1960, such grants amounted to $646,342.

The research office records showed 98 projects on the Carbondale campus last year, supported by grants totaling $5,630,741. Five programs on the Edwardsville campus were supported by an additional $105,663.

Funds received included 17 separate grants from the National Science Foundation, 14 from the U.S. Public Health Service, and a number from such agencies as the Atomic Energy Commission, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, U.S. Department of Agriculture and research offices of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Funds also were received from the Ford Foundation, the American Cancer Society, the U.S. Office of Education and others.

Clam Flour, Onions, Commuting Play Their Parts in Senior's Life

Jack Ninemeier is, in a manner of speaking, up to his ears in dough — but not the spending kind.

The 21-year-old senior spends some 20 hours a week behind the scenes at the University Center cafeteria baking pastries, a task that requires him to get up at 4 a.m. five mornings a week.

Then on the weekends, he commutes 240 miles (round-trip) to St. Louis where he spends another 23 hours flipping pancakes at the Village Inn Pancake House. He formerly worked at a Howard Johnson restaurant in St. Louis and last summer worked at Pope's Cafeteria in Northland, St. Louis County.

Ninemeier, a home economics major, plans a career in food management. He hopes to go on to graduate school upon completing his bachelor's degree, and naturally he'll go right on baking away to pay for his education.

In an experimental food class this quarter, he conducted tests on methods of preparing fried onion rings, a problem that baffles both the homemaker and many professional cooks. He used two recipes but varies the procedure in about 15 different ways to achieve the desired crispness.

One recipe he used was clam flour, so-called because it is used for breading clams and other seafoods. It is composed of dehydrated milk, cake flour, corn meal and dried eggs. The other was a basic batter of flour, milk, and salt.

He found the most satisfactory results were obtained by dipping the onion rings first in milk, then in clam flour, again in milk, and again in clam flour, and allowing them to stand for one hour before frying.

Ninemeier is a graduate of Okawville High School and has retained his legal residence in that Washington County town, although his parents now live in St. Louis.

Gymnasts Need Support

Penn State claims to be the gymnastics capital of the world and, with the enthusiastic capacity crowds it draws for every meet, it has a strong talking point.

This weekend at the NCAA Gymnastics Finals Saluki fans will have the chance to dispute Penn State's claim in front of a national television audience.

Although the SIU team won't be competing as such, five members from this year's team will be competing for individual titles.

Penn State's victory over the Salukis last weekend in the Eastern regionals earned them the right to meet the western regional winner, the University of Washington, for the NCAA team title.

The loss was disappointing to the Salukis as they wanted most to perform in the finals before the home crowd, but with a team consisting of seven sophomores, it's no disgrace to wind up the season in third place.

It was supposed to have been a rebuilding year for Coach Bill Meade anyway, and even the most avid Saluki fan had apprehensions of whether the team could end the third straight regular season undefeated.

But pride and hard work overcame the lack of experience and the Salukis, after some close meets at the start, sailed through the regular season undefeated.

To say that any one member improved the most and was responsible for the success is unfair, since it took a team effort. Yet the work of sophomore Brent Williams can't be overlooked. Williams came from nowhere to finish fourth in team scoring. He is just one of five Salukis competing for individual titles.

Larry Lindauer, Frank Schmitz, Bill Wolf and Tom Cook are the other four.

All five would like to salvage the season by claiming a few titles and join the increasing longline of SIU NCAA champions which includes Fred Tiferina, Bruno Klaus, Fred Orlofsky and Rusty Mitchell.

All five deserve your support.

Church Influence Rising

By Sen. Paul Simon

I'm often asked what influence various religious groups have at the state capitol during the legislative session. It's not an easy question to answer.

The major groups represented are the Illinois Council of Churches (Protestant), the Chicago Roman Catholic diocese, the American Jewish Congress, and the Christian Scientists.

Each group works in a different way.

Harold Johnson represents the Council of Churches on most occasions, and is in charge of a weekly bulletin that goes to those requesting it for a small charge. The Council of Churches represents most Protestant groups and tends to take an interest in social issues.

The Christian Scientists are represented by Richard Heath, who takes special interest and concern in legislation with medical implications, usually requesting and receiving exemptions for those with Christian Science affiliation.

Claire Driscoll represents the Chicago Roman Catholic diocese and is assumed to speak on most issues for Catholics from any other diocese in the state also. He is a lawyer who takes special interest in proposals which may present legal problems to Catholic agencies, as well as issues relating to Catholic dogma, such as birth control.

The American Jewish Congress does not have a man on the Springfield scene each week, but when someone is there this group primarily takes an interest in social issues, and issues which affect those of Jewish faith, such as Sunday closing.

Perhaps the major change that has occurred during the past 10 years is that the three major groups have increasingly been willing to take unpopular stands, to lead public opinion as well as follow it. The best example of this is the fair housing issue, the proposal which calls for an end to racial and religious discrimination in housing. For the last two sessions there has been a large breakfast meeting with representatives from the three groups and legislators.

In this instance the issue is not presented as one in which the members of their parish or temple all agree, but rather an issue which is a moral one, on which they feel compelled to take a strong stand.

There also has been a tendency for the religious groups to work together more and more.

How effective are the religious groups?

This is difficult to assess. They are not among the most powerful of lobbying groups but do have a growing influence. The race track influences or the truckers, for example, are much more powerful today than the church influence — but I doubt that this will be the case 10 years from now.

The weakness of the religious groups — with the exception of the Christian Scientists — is the general feeling among legislators that the positions taken are determined by a very few, with little understanding or even knowledge of the issues beyond this limited circle.

This seems to be changing gradually, and to the extent it does change, influence of religious groups in Springfield will grow.

Furor in Berkeley Stirs New Debate

By Robert M. Hutchins

President Clark Kerr and Acting Chancellor Martin Meyerson of the University of California have announced that the university is unmanageable. If these two able and dedicated men cannot manage the university, who can? The withdrawal, temporary or permanent, of their resignations does not in any way alter the fundamental situation.

The Los Angeles Times has editorially placed the blame for the disintegration of the iversity is and ought to be. The time is at hand to look again at higher education and to find out how it can be made manageable.

Now we do not even know what "manageable" means. Most Americans seem to feel that a university should be manageable in the sense in which a corporation is, the criterion of its operation should be smoothness and efficiency.

Any such standard betrays a lack of understanding of the nature and purpose of a university. The essential characteristic of a good university is vitality. Vitality is produced by involving faculty and students in a continuing discussion of the most important subjects. The purpose is not to perpetuate the status quo, but to subject society to the most penetrating criticism. The university should be a beacon, not a mirror.

The function of the administration is to promote the formation and vitality of the intellectual community. The function of the regents is to protect and sustain the intellectual community.

Neither the regents nor the faculty of the University of California appear to understand their obligations. The regents may be the legal owners of the university, but they cannot discharge their responsibilities unless they recognize the difference between owning a university and owning anything else. Many of the leading members of the faculty have long since abandoned the intellectual community to pursue the more rewarding paths opened by foundation grants and government contracts.

Meanwhile, the structure and methods of higher education have promoted disintegration and triviality. A college is a collection of courses—a college degree is 120 semester hours plus physical education. A university is the same as a college, except that there are more courses.

Formerly, students sought relief from the barrenness of the campus in football, fraternities and fun. An increasing number today finds the extra-curriculum as empty as the curriculum.

President Kerr and Chancellor Meyerson will have performed a great public service by presenting their resignations in the first place if their action leads to the opening of a new debate on the higher learning in America.

Vietnamese War Pace Increased With Stepped-up Attacks From Air

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. and Vietnamese warplanes launched massive scorched-earth raids against the Viet Cong and attacked half a dozen targets in North Viet Nam Wednesday.

The war's tempo speeded up in the wake of the terrorist bombing of the U.S. Embassy in Saigon, though no direct connection was evident between that atrocity and the expanded military operations.

Communist gunners claimed a toll of six U.S. aircraft and at least three Americans were killed in the day's action.

More than 200 planes and 25 helicopters were aloft.

About 70 U.S. Air Force planes poured tons of napalm, phosphorous bombs and fuel oil on the Communist-infested Boi Loi forest 25 miles northeast of Saigon with the aim of burning all its 19,000 acres.

Maj. Gen. Joseph H. Moore, commander of U.S. Air Force units in Viet Nam, said the fire was burning briskly when he flew over the area late in the day.

However, several infantry officers, recalling vain efforts in the past to root the Red guerrillas from that area, were skeptical about the operation's strategic value.

Moore said the fire attack culminated a three-month Air Force project begun with saturation bombing of the Viet Cong base camp in the area in January.

This was followed by what the general described as the biggest defoliation mission ever attempted in Viet Nam. Planes daily spread tons of kerosene-based plant-killing chemicals over the forest.

Broadcast leaflets warned civilians to get out. About 2,000 left the woods for resettlement camps.

The fuel oil, napalm and phosphorous bombs were aimed at two primary points in the forest, which is filled with Viet Cong caves, tunnels and fortifications. Each of the target areas was about a half-mile square. Much of the forest, laced with trees 100 feet tall, is tinder dry as a result of both the chemical defoliation and the current rainless hot season.

The Viet Cong hit back in savage fighting near Viet An, a strategic center in the central highland mountains south of the Da Nang air base.

Red gunners shot down four of a fleet of 25 U.S. Marine and Army helicopters, which were flying in support of elements of a government regiment aground, and killed three of the American crewmen. The roll of U.S. combat dead in Viet Nam rose to 316.

Participating in strikes north of the 17th Parallel were 45 land-based U.S. and Vietnamese fighter-bombers and 60 U.S. Navy planes from the carriers Hancock and Coral Sea.

Announced losses were an F100 reconnaissance jet, which crashed in friendly territory after being hit by flak over North Viet Nam, and one of the Hancock's raiders. The F100 pilot bailed out and landed safely. The fate of the Navy flier was not immediately determined.

Radio Peking broadcast a Hanoi dispatch declaring North Vietnamese antiaircraft fire downed 12 planes.

The targets of the land-based raiders were four North Vietnamese radar stations in the area of Vinh, about 160 miles north of the border and the same distance south of Hanoi, the Communist capital.

Thirty planes from the Coral Sea blasted a radar station on Cape Ron, 65 miles southeast of Vinh, with bombs and rockets to complete demolition of the five-acre installations that were moderately damaged in a raid last Friday.

A military complex at Vinh Son, 30 miles northwest of Vinh, was the target of 30 planes from the Hancock. The installations there had been worked over March 19 by more than 110 U.S. planes-Air Force and Navy.

Asian War Situation Outlined to Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson put in Wednesday what he termed "a very profitable hour" conferring with Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor on troubled Viet Nam. Taylor declined to get into the question of whether there would be continued escalation of the conflict in Viet Nam.

And, to an inquiry whether there would be a reprisal for the bombing of his embassy building in Saigon, the ambassador replied:

"I would not talk in terms of reprisal. We will simply carry out the program and the policy as laid out by the President."

Taylor said, too that:

— He is not resigning his ambassadorial post.

— "I have no yardstick to measure the distance to the conference table." That was in answer to a question whether bombings by U.S. and South Vietnamese forces of North Vietnamese targets had brought the Viet Cong closer to the conference table.

— "The passage from the defense to the offense has been most encouraging to the people there." He was referring to South Viet Nam.

— He plans to confer with members of the House and Senate foreign affairs committees and with newsmen and leave for Saigon at the end of the week.

The President and Taylor met together in the President's oval office and then saw photographers and reporters.

Taylor later told newsmen he and Johnson discussed the Vietnamese situation "more or less across the board."

He said that after he meets today for lunch with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara he would return to the President "with more definite proposals."

Ohio School Civil Rights Role Shifted

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — The campus where more than 600 student civil rights volunteers trained before they were sent to Mississippi last summer will be quieter this year.

The two groups that cooperated in setting up last year's training sessions have no plans for a similar venture this spring.

Western Reserve College for Women, whose facilities were used last June, said it will not say "no" to requests for another such program.

But Fletcher Coates, New York spokesman for the National Council of Churches, said his organization has no plans to repeat the project.

The council's Commission on Religion and Race supplied last year's instructors at the request of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, which was recruiting for its Mississippi summer project.

Western donated its dormitories for two one-week sessions, where trainees were briefed on Mississippi law and customs, voter registration work, teaching of basic skills such as reading, and how to protect themselves nonviolently if attacked.

Steel Union's Contract Terms Reported Nearly $1 Per Hour; Held 'Preposterous'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steelworkers, already among the highest paid workers in the nation, have demanded that the basic steel industry increase their wages and benefits by nearly $1 an hour in the next three years.

This was learned Wednesday from a source close to the top-level negotiations between an eight-man United Steelworkers Union team and four men who are bargaining for the nation's major steel-makers.

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, reportedly called the package that includes at least 65 cents an hour in wages alone, preposterous.

"That's the word he used," said the source.

The package covers wages, pensions and job security. It compares with the industry's previously stated ceiling of about 26 cents an hour.

Not included in the union's demands are a host of so-called contract matters which also involve a cost factor. They will be presented later.

This leaves negotiators a broad gap to bridge before May 1 when the union will be free to call the first industrywide strike since 1959.

Steelworkers now average $33.37 an hour in wages and another $1.04 in benefits.

The key demands, presented to the industry at closed sessions Monday and Tuesday, were:

1. An hourly wage hike in the first and third years ranging from 12.5 cents an hour for the lowest paid workers to 28 cents for the topgrades. Also, a 10 per cent increase for workers not covered by an incentive program.

2. Periodic shortening of the work week from 40 hours to 32, probably every fourth week.

3. Double time for overtime.

4. An increase in pensions from $2.50 a month per year of service to $5.50, plus other improvements.

Chinese Detour Soviet Weapons For Vietnamese

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union is being forced to ship weapons to North Viet Nam by sea because Red China is blocking air and land movement, Communist sources said Wednesday.

The sources said the word is being spread through Communist party representatives in Prague, Czechoslovakia, to explain the delay in getting military aid to the Northern Viet Nam regime. Prague is headquarters for the Communist movement's journal, Problems of Peace and Socialism.

The Russians are reported telling foreign Communists that it is Red China's fault that such weapons as anti-aircraft missiles are failing to reach Hanoi.

This amounts to a Soviet accusation that, for all Peking's lip service to Communist unity in opposing the United States, Red China is putting its hatred of Soviet policies ahead of helping North Viet Nam.

Communist sources have been saying for several days that Peking refused to let Soviet planes fly across China to deliver arms to Hanoi and that rail shipments have been delayed.

Asked about these reports, official spokesmen here have declined to confirm or deny them.

5. An increase in the present one-year limit on supplemental unemployment benefits paid to a laid-off worker in addition to what he gets in unemployment compensation.

There was no request for early retirement. Nor was there a request for increasing the amount of unemployment benefits which now pays 60 per cent of wages.

Recent settlements in the can industry provided both. So did an agreement with the Alan Wood Steel Co. in eastern Pennsylvania which the union describes as a model contract.

The union source said some of the wage demands may not be pressed, notably the overtime provisions and the shorter work week.

50 Killed in Crash Of Spanish Plane

TANGIER (AP) — A chartered Iberia Airlines plane carrying tourists to a vacation in the mountain sun plunged into the Strait of Gibraltar Wednesday, killing 50 people.

Only three passengers survived when the twin-engine Convair plowed into the mist-shrouded sea eight miles off Cape Spartel, the airline reported. They were a Swedish woman and a Danish man and woman.

Most of those aboard were Scandinavians who signed up for the flight at Malaga, Spain. One was an American, Virginia Coleman, whose home town was not given.

By nightfall, rescue vessels picked up 43 bodies.

Railroads Report Cutting of 15,000 Jobs After Firemen, Diesel Engine Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The railroad industry reported Wednesday night it has eliminated the jobs of more than 15,000 locomotive firemen in less than a year.

Another 6,000 of the remaining 22,000 firemen are expected to be eliminated from diesel engines in the second year since the 1963 ruling under the nation's first peacetime compulsory arbitration law.

The removal of firemen on grounds that they are not needed on modern locomotives has cost the industry $30 million in severance pay so far, but it stands to save an estimated $75 million a year in wages.

The figures were prepared for a speech by chief industry negotiator, J. E. Wolfe.

Wolfe said the vast majority of the eliminated firemen landed on their feet with other jobs, a business of their own set up with their severance money, or are going to college.

Only 11 per cent of the 15,135 men eliminated so far have shown up on railroad unemployment rolls, he said.

Earthquakes Strike Areas of Greece

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A series of earthquakes struck parts of Greece on Wednesday, killing at least four persons and injuring dozens more. Officials said the final casualty toll could go higher.

An estimated 1,500 homes were destroyed or damaged.

The first quake struck at mid-day and sent thousands rushing in panic in Athens, in Patras, in the Peloponnese and in the tobacco center of Agrinion.

Tremors two hours later did more damage to the Corinthian Gulf area.

SIU to Cooperate On 4-Lane Road For Mill Street

Cooperation with the City of Carbondale to construct a four-lane roadway on Mill Street has been offered by the Board of Trustees.

The University board will dedicate necessary right-of-way from land it owns or may acquire on the south side of the present street to permit the widening, and, if the money is appropriated by the Legislature, will contribute up to 50 per cent of the cost of the street improvement. The Mill Street project was included in an improvement program for which a bond issue was approved by Carbondale voters last year.

The University trustees also authorized discussions and agreements leading to construction of the first privately financed residence hall on University property.

22 Junior, Senior High Schools File Entries for Fair Saturday

Homemade science exhibits from 22 Southern Illinois junior and senior high schools are assured for the annual Illinois Junior Academy of Science Fair here Saturday.

SIU chemistry professor George Brown, cochairman of the event, has limited entries to 2-1/2 per cent of any school's enrollment in order to contain the Fair's size and control its quality.

The exhibits will be set up and judged at the University School gymnasium. Top award winners will qualify for the annual Illinois Academy of Science meeting in Urbana.

At an afternoon session, students will elect officers for the Junior Academy's southern district. Outgoing student chairman is D.L. Emerick of Fairfield.

Brown said that of exhibits certified so far, zoological themes lead the entry list with 53. Centralia High School tops the field with 33 exhibits scheduled.

Chester High School science teacher Manley Limbaugh is cochairman.

Schools entered to date are Anna Junior High, Anna-Jonesboro Senior High, Benton, Lick Creek, Chairon Washington Junior High, Carbondale Community, Carbondale University, Carbondale Lincoln Junior High, Carmi Junior High, Centralia, Chester, Fairfield, Herrin St. Mary's, Mills Prairie, Murphysboro, Murphysboro Caruthers Junior High, Red Bud Precious Blood, Spart, Wolf Lake, Marion, Marion Junior High, Cairo Senior High, Dongola.

Best Fair Entrants To Get SIU Grants

SIU will give four-year, full tuition scholarships to four outstanding high school students whose exhibits are judged as winners in the Greater St. Louis Science Fair April 1-9.

Henry Dan Piper, dean of the SIU College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and representative to the fair, said the fair has in the past attracted a number of outstanding science exhibits from Illinois students, as well as those from Missouri. Twenty-four college scholarships with a total value of more than $35,000 are among prizes offered this year.

City Council Receives Report On Population Rise, Problems

By Lester Parker

Married students and faculty members at SIU will have difficulty finding schools and playgrounds for their children, and will be faced with numerous traffic problems in 1985. That is, unless something is done to improve city planning techniques in Carbondale.

According to projections presented to the Carbondale City Council Wednesday by the Greater Egypt Regional Planning Commission, Carbondale's population is estimated to reach 42,000 in 1985.

Mayor D. Biane Miller said he appreciated the fine work done by the commission but said he hoped the estimated 42,000 was a conservative one.

The commission report states that along with the population increase there will be greater demand for more or enlarged schools, streets, parks and playgrounds. It also called for a careful study of city planning techniques to cope with the problems of traffic and parking, especially in shopping and service areas.

The council unanimously agreed to take action to implement the commission's recommendations.

In other action, the council approved the proposal to set up a 12-mile connecting waterline from the Carbondale-Crab Orchard Water System. The 12-mile line is estimated to cost $142,000. And water consumption for the Lakeside Water District is expected to average 100,000 gallons per day.

Representatives for the district said the new line would not affect the availability of water in the Carbondale area. This includes SIU which is also a recipient of water from the Crab Orchard line.

The present waterline carries an estimated 3.5 million gallons per day. SIU consumes approximately 450,000 gallons of it. The line has twice the capacity of water being consumed. Therefore, the connection presents no serious threat to Carbondale residents.

Tramp Tricks Jargon

Gymnasts Do Full Out Fliffuses; Laymen Can't Even Pronounce It

Say "Full out fliffus" as many times and as fast as you can. Chances are you won't get it out correctly more than five or six times in a row.

For those not "up" on gymnastics talk a "fullout fliffus" is a trampoline trick consisting of a double somersault with a full twist on the second somersault.

It is almost as hard to perform as it is to pronounce.

Frank Schmitz is adding this trick to his routine in hopes of upsetting the trampoline champion Gary Erwin.

Erwin, from the University of Michigan, finished ahead of Schmitz here at the trampoline trials last month and also the following week at the USGF Trampoline Championships in London.

Tickets Available

For NCAA Meet

Tickets to the National Collegiate Athletic Association's gymnastics championship meet at the SIU Arena still are available at the Arena.

Officials said that tickets to the meet are going well. Some 8,000 persons are expected to attend the three sessions.

The meet begins at 1:30 p.m. Friday and winds up Saturday night with Penn State and the University of Washington competing for the team championship. More than 100 of the nation's top college gymnasts will compete for individual titles.

SIU's team, last year's national champion, is the host team. It was knocked out of competition for the team championship by Penn State, but five Saluki gymnasts will compete in 11 events.

Erwin also defeated Schmitz at the Midwestern regional at Iowa City two weeks ago.

Schmitz, who doesn't like to play second fiddle to anyone, is resorting to this trick to add more difficulty to his routine in hopes of upsetting the champion, Erwin.

Erwin and Schmitz had better not worry too much about each other as the number three man in the trials, Danny Millman, is also returning and will be one of the contenders who could knock down both the champion and the runner-up.

These are just three of the 24 gymnasts who will be competing on the trampoline for the title. The action is expected to be fast and furious.

Gymnastics Finals to Be Held In Arena Friday and Saturday

One day! That is all that remains before the NCAA Gymnastics Finals, the biggest sports event ever to be held at SIU.

Many of the more than 100 gymnasts representing 35 colleges and universities in some 17 states have already begun to arrive. More will arrive tonight and Friday.

The meet will officially begin at 1:30 p.m. Friday when 30 of this country's top gymnasts step to the Arena's free exercise mat to begin their routines.

The top six free exercise performers will then return Saturday night before the judges make their final choice on who will be the NCAA free exercise champion.

Other events on the afternoon program in addition to free exercise are side horse, trampoline and high bar.

Southern will have four of its five performers competing in the opening session.

Frank Schmitz will be trying to become one of the finalists in free exercise and trampoline. Brent Williams will hopefully join Schmitz Saturday night on the trampoline. Larry Lindauer will be competing in free exercise, and Bill Wolf will be on high bar.

The second session will begin at 8 p.m. Friday. It will find the top 30 performers competing in long horse, parallel bars and rings. The top six performers in these events will also return to the Arena Saturday night for further competition.

Southern also will be well represented in the second session. Schmitz and Williams will be on long horse, Wolf on parallel bars and rings, Lindauer on the parallel bars and Tom Cook on the rings.

The final session which starts at 8 p.m. Saturday will have the top six performers competing in each of seven events and will be enlivened by the battle between Penn State and the University of Washington.

Both schools have survived regional competition and will be trying for the team championship.

In prelude to the finals the National Association of College Gymnastics Coaches will get together tonight for their annual business meeting at the Elks Club.

George Nissen, manufacturer of Nissen Trampolines and one-time gymnastics star at the University of Iowa, and Gus Kern, coach for 25 years, will be honored.

Library to Exhibit

Special Printing

A display of special typography and printing will be opened Friday in the Rare Book Room of Morris Library. Ralph Waldo Bushee, rare book librarian, announced Wednesday.

Bushee said the display is being staged to mark a visit to SIU over the weekend of 30 members of the Chicago Society of Typographic Arts.

The display will remain in the Rare Book Room for an indefinite period, and will include a variety of early and modern limited edition and other special printing, Bushee said.

Coach Is Optimistic

Saluki Golfers Get Fast Start On Way to Defend No. 1 Spot

There's not much room at the top, and once you get there it's hard to stay. But SIU golf Coach Lynn Holder and his Saluki golfers have been on top a year and they have found it rather enjoyable. They have no intention of abdicating their throne.

The defending national college division champs opened their schedule in Trojan fashion with six matches in a week. Now they take a breather as they are idle until Monday.

The rest of the schedule will be at a more leisurely pace as the links' final seven matches are spread over a period of a month and a half.

During the spring trip through Louisiana, Mississippi and Kentucky the golfers compiled a 3-2 record. They defeated Tulane, Murray State and Austin Peay State and lost twice to Mississippi Southern.

"I was real pleased with their performance," Holder said. He explained that the squad was behind the opponents because of the bad weather and also due to the fact that those schools play year around.

"Two weeks of good weather and we'll be right in there with them" the veteran mentor said confidently.

April and May will be big months for the defending champs who will meet such golf powers as Purdue, Notre Dame, Wisconsin and Michigan State during the stretch drive as they point toward the NCAA finals June 14-20.

The team's schedule is one of the toughest of all time but that factor could lead to another national championship. The talent is there. Only two starters from last year's 14-3 squad are missing.

Both were highly regarded as Jim Place had played the No. 1 spot for two seasons and Gene Carello tied for fifth place in the individual standings at the national tournament last year.

However, Holder's team is loaded with veterans. Returning are John Krueger, Jerry Kirby, Leon McNair, Bill Muehleman, Tom Muehleman, John Phelps, Allan Kruse, Michael Coale and Phil Stamison.

Both Muehlemans plus McNair, Kirby and Krueger were in the lineup at the national meet last year as Place missed the meet due to commencement. All fared well as Bill Muehleman tied Carello for fifth place and the others shot "great golf" according to Holder.

Balance could be another ingredient the group has aplenty. One of the most memorable things about last year's squad was that on any given day the team's No. 6 man might shoot as well as the No. 1 man.

The same thing may hold this year. On the spring trip Phelps won 4 of 5 matches, but Bill Muehleman and Krueger shot better rounds with 73's.

Monday, however, Tom Muehleman and Kirby set the pace with 73 and 74, so the "today I'll take over, tomorrow you can" attitude is again evident.

Another championship might be in the incubating stage. Holder, who has been in charge of the SIU golf program since 1946 has few reservations.

"By the time the NCAA comes along we should be in excellent shape to defend our national championship," the balding coach said optimistically just before his team routed Southeast Missouri State 18-0 Monday.

Better Year Ahead

SIU Tennis Coach Grooms Prospects

SIU Tennis Coach Carl Sexton is a man living in the present but looking ahead. Last year in his initial try at tennis coaching he reached the pinnacle of success. He coached the Salukis to an undefeated season and a national college division championship. But this year, unless a miracle takes place, there will be no national championship and hopes of an undefeated season have already been erased.

Nevertheless, the 33-year-basketball coach said. "I think the boys played fairly well on our spring trip, considering the competition. They had a couple of real close matches."

The squad won one and lost three on the trip as they were defeated by Oklahoma 5-2, Copus Christi 5-1 and Houston 5-2 before beating Oklahoma City 4-3. Their scheduled match with Wichita State was rained out, Sexton said it will probably be played when Wichita State visits Carbondale April 17.

Lance Lumsden, who worked his way up to the second ranking player in his native Jamaica, was particularly outstanding on the trip. The 24-year-old went undefeated in dual match competition as he played in the No. 1 spot for the Salukis, the same position he held last year.

The 6-2 senior was seeded 7th among 64 entrants in the Rice Invitational March 26 and 27, although he was upset in the second round, Villarete, however, gave SIU a representative in the finals as he reached the freshman division championship match. There he was beaten 6-2 and 6-3 by Burch Seewagen of Rice, who ranks in the junior division top 10 in the nation.

Another Saluki player who looked good on the trip was Vic Seper, a senior from Chicago.

"I was real pleased with his play," Sexton said.

Sexton can take some consolation in the 1-3 spring record. The toughest teams on his team's schedule are now behind them. Whether that means anything or not may soon be determined, as the team opens its home season Saturday at 1:30 against DePauw at the local courts.

L.A. Defeats Cards;

Davis Batting .424

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Tommy Davis drove in his 22nd and 23rd runs of the spring and raised his average to .424 Wednesday as the Los Angeles Dodgers won an exhibition from St. Louis 7-3.

The Dodger left fielder climaxed a six-run rally in the second inning with a two-run triple off left-hander Curt Simmons.

St. Louis pummeled Johnny Podres for seven hits and three runs in five innings but couldn't score the rest of the way against Dodger relievers Bob Miller and Ron Perranoski.

CARL SEXTON

old Sexton can still smile. In fact, just mention next season's prospects to the Paris, Ill., native and the generally reserved coach brightens.

There's good reason. Sexton is grooming four top freshman prospects and he can't wait until they become eligible for varsity competition.

Among the quartet are Jose Villarete and Johnny Yang from the Philippines and Joe Brandi and Mike Sprengmeyer, brother of former Saluki tennis greats, Bob and Roy.

Villarete was the Philippines' No. 1 ranked junior player last year, although Brandi, who is now ineligible, may be the best of the group.

Also brightening the net horizon is the fact that three of this year's starting team will be returning next season. They are a junior, Thad Ferguson, and sophomores John Wykoff and Richard Snyder.

But this season is still ahead and although the outlook was dimmed somewhat by the loss of last year's No. 5 man Al Pena, who decided not to compete this season, Sexton thinks the team will win its share.

"Considering our schedule I think we'll do well," the former Clay City baseball and
